CATALOGUE OF A SELECTION OF THE JUBILEE PRESENTS OF QUEEN VICTORIA,
AND OTHER ROYAL PRESENTS. EX-
HIBITED BY GRACIOUS PERMISSION OF HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII.

THE Royal Presents included in this collection, by the gracious permission of His Majesty King Edward VII., chiefly consist of gifts made to Her Majesty, the late Queen Victoria, on the occasion of the Jubilee celebrations of 1887 and 1897. Of these the greater number have come from India, where native princes of all grades and representatives of all nationalities and religions vied with each other in offering to Her Majesty the splendid tribute of her Indian Empire.

These Indian presents are of great interest, not merely on account of the precious metals and rare woods in which they are often worked, but as showing how in recent years European ideas have influenced native Indian art, which, however, in many instances, is represented in its most characteristic and unaffected form.

The remainder of the collection includes gifts offered by the representatives of the British Colonies, many of them richly illuminated addresses, often enclosed in caskets handsomely worked in metal or in native woods, or, as in the case of Cape Colony, represented by a magnificent screen of ostrich feathers, by objects which recall an important industry of the Colony.

Many of the presents were exhibited at the Imperial Institute in connection with the Jubilee of 1897, and a certain number were afterwards shown in the Branch of the Victoria and Albert Museum at Bethnal Green.

These presents form only a small proportion of the thousands sent from every part of the British Empire, which are now included in the Royal collections at Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Osborne and Sandringham.

The selection and arrangement of the present collection has been entrusted by His Majesty the King to Professor WYNDHAM DUNSTAN, F.R.S., Director of the Imperial Institute, and Sir C. PURDON CLARKE, C.I.E., F.S.A., Director of the Victoria and Albert Museum.
